Dear Harold,

Thanks for the info on Thornley. I have sent in an order to New Classics House, which should be answered shortly. I'll also check several N.Y. book stores and ask Gary whether he knows how I could get a copy. If it's at all possible, I would rather avoid having to borrow the book from you, since things so often get lost in the mail during the Christmas season.

I'll also ask Gary whether he has the original transcript of Thornley's testimony. If he doesn't, do you know how I could go about getting it?

This past weekend someone told me that Richard Kollmar (Dorothy Kilgallen's husband, who has still not written to me) now runs an art gallery in New York. Perhaps I will try to reach him there when I am in the New York area (late December and early January).

There's still no word from Lifton. It's possible that he connected my Ithaca address with Gary (who used to be a student here) and figures that I am one of Gary's colleagues. Anyway, I'll be sure to let you know if and when I hear from him.

Sincerely

Richard
